

Cold War Confessions: Inside Our Classified Defense Programs #River Pointe Publications, 2007 #Jay Carp #306 pages

Cold War Confessions is the human story of how classified weapons and weapon systems, both the successful and the unsuccessful, were built. Specifically, the background, the history, the deployment, and the operation of the Minuteman Inter Continental Ballistic Missile are explained. The reader need not be a rocket scientist to appreciate this book, as the people who worked on Minuteman are in the foreground while the technical details are in the background.
